Go Green
...WITH VINYL SIDING!

Yes...Vinyl Siding is a GREEN choice!

Most people don't realize that vinyl siding is an environmentally friendly alternative to other building products. Unlike stucco and brick, vinyl products can be recycled in order to create new vinyl materials. Unlike fiber cement and wood, vinyl is cleaned easily with soap and water thus eliminating the impact of poisons found in some paints and cleaning products.

RECYCLED VINYL:

Engineered, reused vinyl siding products offer solutions for almost all environmental friendly homeowners. Vinyl manufacturers are committed to scrapping their finished products in addition to regrinding vinyl recycle goods that do not meet specifications

ENERGY EFFICIENCY:

Vinyl Siding creates an efficient insulating air sealant that greatly reduces HVAC usage (and the bills associated with that)

DURABILITY:

Vinyl does not absorb water, and in effect repellent of rust, corrosion, insect damage, molds and other decays. Vinyl's resilience to withstand the elements makes for low maintenance and product longevity

VINYL

Aesthetics

Vinyl provides enduring beauty and design flexibility. Using a variety of siding soffit styles, colors, accessories and trim, you can update a ranch, add depth and character to a colonial or even recreate a Victorian.

Moreover, you can select siding that will be consistent with your home's design and fit into the environment and neighboring homes. Some of the new vinyl products even make your home more energy efficient. There are hundreds of vinyl products available to add a finished look to your home.

SIDING

Durability

Vinyl is now the number one siding material available. Nothing beats vinyl siding, trim products and accessories for sheer endurance. Unlike many other siding materials, vinyl is impervious to rain, cold, salt and snow.

Vinyl won't rot, peel, dent or show scratches, nor will it ever need painting. A simple soap and water rinse once a year is all that's required to remove dirt and maintain the look of freshly painted wood. Vinyl can save you thousands of dollars in maintenance alone.

BENEFITS

Value

Increase your curb appeal! Vinyl siding is not just practical and functional; it beautifies your home.

The return on investment of installing vinyl siding is high if you are planning on selling your home. It's the maintenance free aspect that appeals to buyers. With the plethora of color varieties to choose from your creativity options are limitless!

Choosing vinyl siding promotes curb aesthetics and therefore increases the value of your home or office.
